Advanced Assessment Strategies is for nursing educators who want to increase their assessment competencies by learning directly from the experts. NCSBN staff who manage the content and item writing process for the NCLEX-PN® and NCLEX-RN® examinations authored this course to help nursing educators build techniques to assess critical thinking of students.

Experienced educators and participants who have completed the Test Development & Item Writing course learn to write items that assess critical thinking. Participants are guided through the process of writing or converting items to higher-level items.

This course is asynchronous and self-paced; therefore, users start the course at any time. Participants receive critique of their final exam exercises by the course faculty to ensure that course objectives are met.
